The Role of Weather in Wildland Fire Behavior

~~with Mike Baker~~

Monday November 7
6:30 pm.
REI Boulder

Mike Baker is the Public/Aviation/Fire Weather Forecaster and Former Incident Meteorologist, Climate Service Focal Point, with the National Weather Service in Boulder.

With Mike, we will look at the important role of weather in wildland fire behavior and examine weather and fuel conditions that were present at the time of many of the area's recent wildfires.

His presentation will conclude with a general outlook for the 2012 wildland fire season along the Colorado Front Range.

And since Pine Bark Beetles are part of the fire equation, don't miss

The Mountain Pine Bark Beetles Musical Revue!

Debra Yeager, Director

presented by the Colorado Native Plant Society Boulder Chapter

at the November 10 meeting

6:30 pm

at REI Boulder

All are welcome!

Please join us for a riveting, touching, and hilarious evening of poetry and music on the Mountain Pine Bark Beetle! This presentation has been acclaimed by mountain pine bark beetle scientists who have seen the show or heard it on CD Poetry is by John Latham, multi-national-award-winning poet in the UK and internationally-renowned climate change scientist, set to Beatles songs by Musical Director Debra Yeager and talented cast. The cast hails from Gold Hill, in the burn area of the Four Mile Fire.
